

GREEN INTERESTS IN ELECTION DELEGATES

Methodist Conference Will Name Representatives to Big General Meeting

ARMONISM IS CONDEMNED

Business Session, Addresses, Reception and Celebrations Make Busy Day

Delegates to the forty ninth annual conference of the Colorado Methodist church and to the laymen's quadrennial conference seem of one mind on but one question—the selection of delegates to the general conference of church at Minneapolis, in May of next year.

Our ministers and four laymen are chosen at this conference. Of ministers mentioned for the honor are, Chancellor Henry A. Butcher, Denver; University, Dr. R. A. Chase Greeley, formerly of this city; Dr. D. D. Forsyth, superintendent of Denver district; the Rev. Claudius H. Advocate, editor of the Central Christian, and the Rev. C. B. Wilcox, formerly of Trinity church, Denver, and the Rev. R. H. Hollenback, superintendent of the Colorado Springs district.

Among the laymen spoken of are T. Barber, architect, Colorado Springs; L. Hartman, attorney, Pueblo; B. Salzer, banker, and H. O. Smith, of Denver.

There also will be nominated, one delegate confided, "and I would not be surprised to see a lively time between the delegates as they are named."

Against Monism. A special committee, composed of Dr. H. F. Hall of Denver, and the Rev. Spencer of Pueblo, is running a resolution which probably will be presented to the delegates tomorrow, condemning monism.

The committee was met yesterday morning following a speech by Dr. Hall, in which he strongly urged monism and ending.

"We find our answer to all things," Dr. H. F. Hall of Denver, president of the Illinois School of Theology, in lecture yesterday afternoon, "in the Bible, and not in the things about it. He has set down his word, and let confidence in his teachings, as in the Bible, will make our own light."

Miss Isabel Leitch of Chicago, member of the national board of the Woman's Missionary society, gave a talk yesterday afternoon, at the celebration of the silver anniversary of A. C. Peck of Denver, state president at the meeting.

Miss Leitch spoke of the progress made in foreign and home fields, gave encouragement to the Colorado workers, in mentioning special incidents where such good has been

Many Attend Reception. The 357 delegates registered at the First M. E. church, where the conference is being held, about 300 were present at the reception, given at the hospital yesterday afternoon. The Colorado Springs and Pueblo Railway company gave transportation to and from the hotel.

Chancellor Butcher of Denver unity, announced that he is in favor of dividing the church work into three different groups and placing "absolute control of three of them."

For example, he said, "you place men such as Bishops Quayle, Howell and Wilson, in absolute charge of the educational work. Let them devote all their time, with the exception of when they are called to the conference meetings, to the study of the problems of enlightenment and the present needs of the peoples, and I will guarantee that

S. WILL HAVE TWO LARGEST WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The two battleships authorized by the last act probably will be of 25,500 displacement, or the largest warships in the world. The largest ship designed for the American navy, known as the New York and Texas, is a displacement of 27,000 tons each. It became known only today that the navy department contemplated even heavier armor than ever before on a battleship, which accounts for their increased displacement. The design of the new vessels will be the same as that of the New York and Texas, with a main battery of ten 14-inch guns.

In this approach to a 30,000-ton ship the naval ordinance experts are considering the question of inch gun. It will require a 3,000-pound gun to withstand the recoil from a main battery of ten 14-inch guns.

GETS GUN AND ROUTS ROBBER

WOMAN FIRES AT BOLD BURGLAR IN HOME

Fugitive Unharmed and Escapes—Excitement at Residence

Nothing daunts a thief's demand, "Your money or your jewels?" Mrs. H. G. Duncan, wife of Dr. Duncan, 114 North Weber street, last night about 9 o'clock dashed past the burglar in her dining room, secured a revolver and took a flying shot at him as he ran out. The shot did not take effect, and the police so far have been unable to locate the thief, whom they believe must be acquainted with the premises and habits of the household.

Mrs. Duncan had gone upstairs for the night, when she noticed a bar of light streaming from beneath the door of the dining room. Remembering that she had turned out that light just before going upstairs, she went down again to investigate. As she opened the door she almost ran into a stockily-built man, who yelled at her to give up her money and her jewelry. The man had a white handkerchief over the lower part of his face, in regulation story-book style.

Routes Burglar With Gun. She at once dashed past him into the next room, where she secured the revolver and returned. As she got to the threshold she saw the man's back disappearing out the door into the hall, and fired one shot at him. He was last seen running rapidly up the street.

Mrs. Duncan immediately called up the police, and Captain Stark and an officer went to the scene of the attempted robbery. They made a thorough investigation, but could find nothing on which to base a clue as to the identity of the burglar.

Inasmuch as Dr. Duncan was out on a wall and Mrs. Duncan was alone in the house, it is believed that the thief took what appeared to be an opportunity to burglarize the house. He probably entered through an unlocked door or open window, and lighted up the various rooms of the house as he proceeded with his investigation.

When Mrs. Duncan surprised him he was apparently looking about to see what he would take away with him or where he would go next.

Believe Conference Was Without Results. CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Peaceful settlement of the labor disputes involving 3,000 shipmen employed by the Illinois Central railroad, who are demanding recognition for their union, seemed further away than ever after representatives of the nine individual unions had conferred with W. L. Park, vice president of the road. Neither Park nor representatives of the unions would reveal the result of the conference but it was reported among union men that Park had reiterated the former determination of the railroad to treat only with individual unions. It is believed that the union officials have decided to await the outcome of the conference in San Francisco between the presidents of the "international unions" and Julius Kruttschnitt, vice president of the Harriman lines, which are involved in a similar controversy.

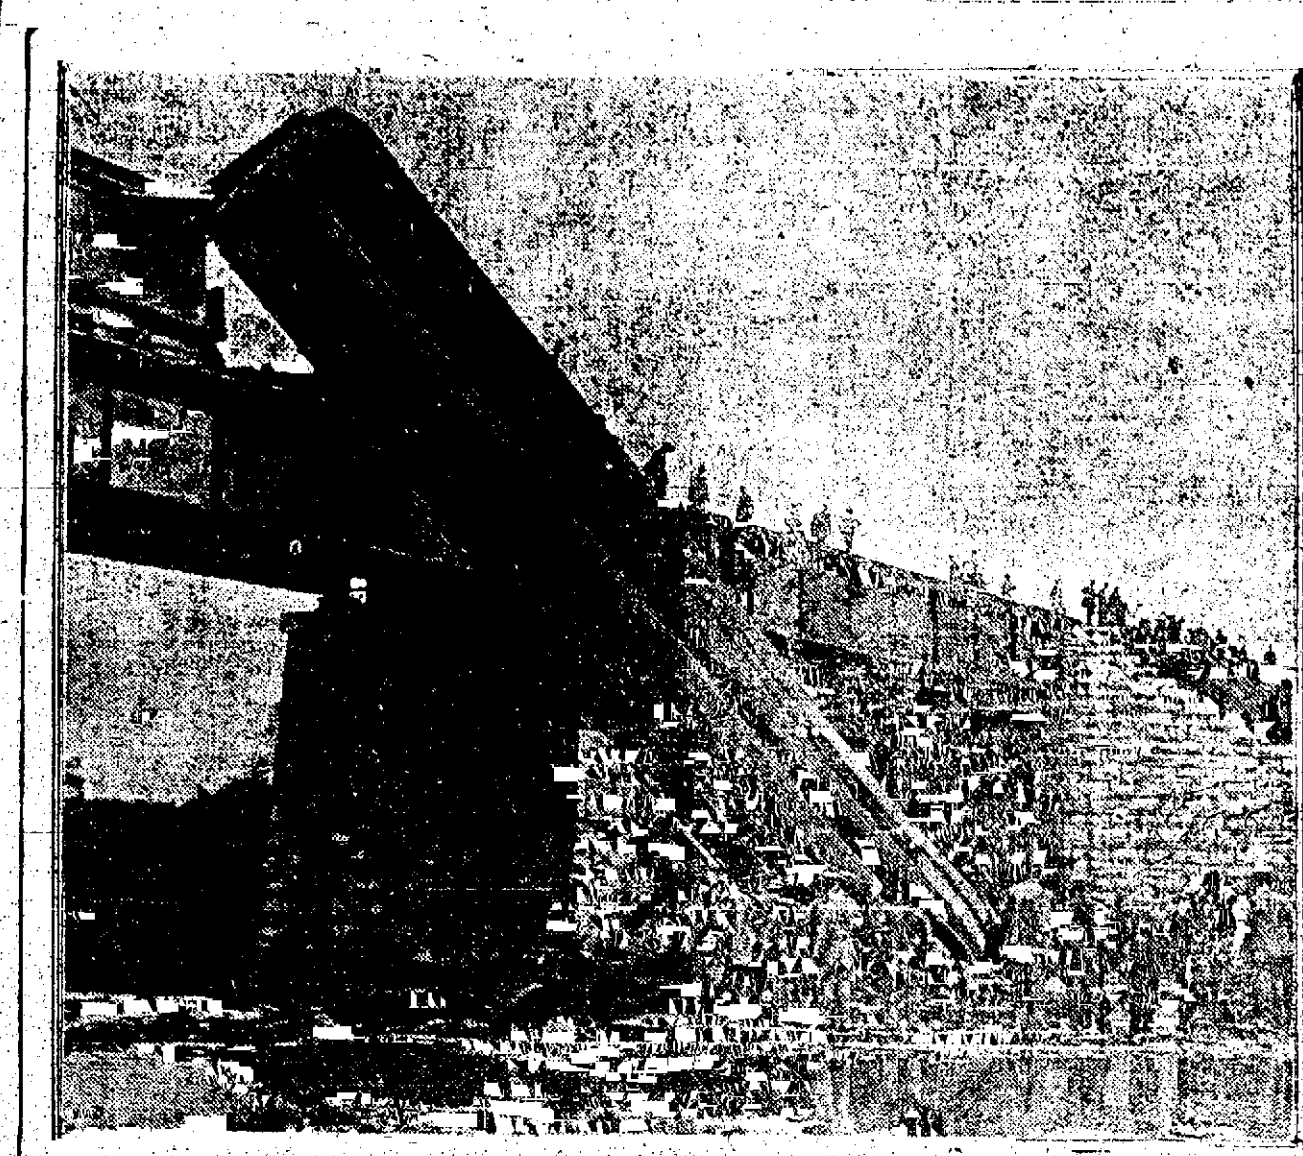

Another conference with the railroad officials is to be sought tomorrow by the union officials at which attempts are to be made to bring about a meeting between President McCreery of the federated shop employees and Vice President Park of the railroad.

Wrote Bogus Checks to Make Showing Charged. DENVER, Aug. 30.—Pietro Piasini of Trinidad appeared before Justice of the Peace Morris today, charged with having issued fictitious checks for $1,100. Piasini had not attempted to cash the checks, but it is asserted he attempted to buy a Denver saloon on the strength of this financial showing. The case was continued.

Two Camorristi to Prison for Insults to Court President. VITERBO, Aug. 30.—Enrico Alfano, the alleged head of the Camorristi, and Giuseppe Minichiello, another member of the Camorra, now on trial for the murder of Genaro Cuccolo, and his wife, were condemned to three months' imprisonment today, for insulting Cavaliere Bianchi, the president of the court.

When the session was resumed this morning the prisoners were again confronted with a carabiniere whose testimony dealt with the finding of Cuccolo's ring. Alfano and Minichiello took offense at the manner in which questions were put to the witness and shouted that the judge was suggesting his answers. They caused so much confusion that the proceedings were interrupted.

After the tumult had subsided the public prosecutor demanded that Alfano and Minichiello be tried on the charge of insulting the judge and the two chief disturbers were condemned to six months' imprisonment. The excited state of the prisoners, however, induced the judge to insist on the sentences being reduced to three months in each case.

VIEW OF THE DISASTROUS WRECK AT MANCHESTER, N. Y. ON AUGUST 25. Two cars of a heavy passenger train on the Lehigh Valley railroad plunged over a 40-foot trestle into a creek on that date, killing 45 people and injuring hundreds. Many of the victims were members of the G. A. R., who were returning from the national encampment at Rochester.

Armed Woman, Neighbors and Two Detectives Chase Burglar

A woman with a revolver, a dozen or more boys and the driver of a coal wagon last Tuesday afternoon took part in an exciting chase after a burglar who had tried to enter the home of Philip Zehner, 330 North El Paso street. Half an hour afterward two detectives also joined in the chase, having been notified by telephone by Mrs. Zehner, but the fugitive escaped.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Zehner, who was alone in the house, noticed a man walk through the front door, peering up at the windows. A few minutes afterward she saw the same man in the back yard, and later he was seen peering into the windows in the side of the house on the lower floor.

By this time Mrs. Zehner was thoroughly alarmed. She went to a room on the second floor where she secured a revolver. With this she came to the kitchen, and while there heard the man trying the front door. For a minute or two he rattled the knobs, and then she heard him step onto the back porch. She sat undisturbed just what to do, not knowing whether to shoot at the man if he entered or to call to him.

Finally she ran through the front door to the street, where she spoke to a passing coal wagon. She called to the driver to come and "help her get a burglar."

The driver entered the front yard and at the same time the burglar came from the rear of the house toward them. Mrs. Zehner raised the revolver, pointing it at him, whereupon he yelled, "Don't don't don't," at the same time starting back on a dead run toward the alley.

Neighbors Join in Chase. Mrs. Zehner's screams had by this time aroused the entire neighborhood, and the chase was soon joined in by several boys and women. Around and around the block they chased the man, and finally lost him. When last seen he was "hitting out for Pikesville at a lively rate."

Detectives Rainsack and Pinnock then arrived and set to work on the case, but so far have been unable to find trace of the would-be robber. A peculiar feature of the chase after the burglar, and one that causes the authorities to believe that he may have a woman accomplice, is the fact that as he was running up the street he passed a woman, coming toward the pursuers. Mrs. Zehner called to stop the man, but she made no effort to do so, although he ran within a foot of her. Later the woman was seen looking into the windows of the Zehner store on North Tejon street. She was also remarked by several of the neighbors as having been seen in the vicinity of the Zehner home for several days.

She was dark complexioned and wore dark clothes and a veil. The man, by his speech, was evidently a foreigner, presumably an Italian, and was dressed in dark clothes. He was heavy set and wore a derby hat.

Corroborate Tale of a Bearded Man. Two Witnesses at Beattie Murder Trial Tell of Seeing Stranger. CHESTERFIELD, COURTHOUSE, Va., Aug. 30.—Testimony corroborating the story told by Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., that a bearded highwayman killed his wife with a shotgun was introduced by the defense in the Beattie trial today when W. B. Holland, who lives in the vicinity of the Middleton turnpike, where the murder occurred, declared he had seen a bearded man with a shotgun there about five hours before the tragedy.

It was the first move of the defense after the prosecution rested its case at noon today, to establish the veracity of the prisoner, and besides Holland's statement concerning a man with a shotgun, Eugene Henshaw, a farmer who travels the Middleton turnpike daily, testified that he saw a strange-looking man prowling around on three different days before the murder.

It is reported tonight that the prosecution is ready when its time for rebuttal arrives, to put on the stand the man who passed along the railroad tracks where Holland said he saw a man with a shotgun and that the new witness will say he was squirrel hunting that day.

How Much Auto Will Bounce. The defense summoned many witnesses. Besides the testimony regarding the bearded man, expert testimony was introduced as to the bouncing qualities of an automobile similar to that driven by Beattie, thereby accounting for the jolting out of the car of the shotgun placed in a rear seat by Beattie after the encounter with the alleged highwayman.

The prosecution attacked the line of evidence on cross-examination. It contended that the railroad where Beattie claims the gun must have been jolted

UNIONS SAY FEDERATION HAS PROVED FEASIBLE

Seek to Influence Harriman Management With Words of Late Magnate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—Magnate of the International Union of Shipbuilders arrived here today to take up the representation of their union in the Harriman management of the late magnate.

They are the "magnates" of the labor movement, and are expected to influence the management of the late magnate's business.

They are the "magnates" of the labor movement, and are expected to influence the management of the late magnate's business.

To Avert Strike if Possible. With a vote already taken among the crafts, strongly urging the general officers to call a strike unless the federation is recognized, the union representatives will go into conference in order to avert one if it possibly can be done.

His Running Mate, F. V. Gomez, Turned Down—Nominated Vice President Today. MEXICO CITY, Aug. 30.—With no dissenting voice, Francisco I. Madero today was nominated by the Progressive party for president of Mexico, but Francisco Vasquez Gomez, his old running mate and erstwhile agent of the revolution at Washington, was grilled by partisans of three other candidates for the vice presidency.

When the convention adjourned tonight the candidacy of three other men for the vice presidency had been considered. Jose Elmo Suarez continued a favorite in the betting, with Alfred Robles Dominguez as second choice. A ballot tonight probably would have resulted in a division of honors for third place between Gomez and Fernando Iglesias Calderon.

Madero was the only candidate for the presidency whose name was placed before the convention. No speeches were made. The chairman announced Madero's candidacy, went through the formality of asking if there were other names and was elected by a chorus of "no's." One delegate seated on the stage attempted to make a speech in Madero's support. The delegates shouted him down and called for a vote. It was unanimous.

An instant later every delegate was on his feet and to the cheers of "vivas" was added the cheers of the spectators in the galleries. For fully 10 minutes the uproar continued.

At 3 o'clock tonight the committee which had been sent to advise Madero of his nomination reported that he had accepted and had agreed to appear before the body tomorrow.

March to Madero's Home. The delegates seized on this as an excuse for an outbreak of applause which resulted in adjournment following the adoption of a resolution that the entire body should immediately march to Madero's home.

Impromptu speeches were then exchanged and it was late in the night before the newly-elected politicians left for their hotels.

The announcement of Madero's acceptance came at the conclusion of a speech which brought about the most dramatic moment of the convention.

By agreement the names of the candidates for vice president had been drawn by lot to be discussed in rotation. Vasquez Gomez was the first name drawn.

For and against a number of delegates had spoken when Jesus Urquiza began a speech in opposition. Renowned as one of Mexico's most brilliant orators, he had little difficulty in swaying an audience already opposed to Gomez. He used sarcasm without stint. The greater portion of his invective was based upon the title "Brains of the Revolution," given Mr. Vasquez Gomez during the war.

Sarcasms were repeated the phrase and then followed it by instances calculated to show that the candidate's actions were far from those which would entitle him to such distinction.

PERFECTS GUN TO DESTROY AIRSHIPS

U. S. Army Leads in Race to Secure Protection From Overhead Danger

Has Special Exploding Projectiles That Will Carry Seven Miles

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—A new projectile gun equipped with specially adapted high explosive projectiles and stripped shell to demolish airships and balloons in battle has been perfected by the United States army. It can be elevated at any angle and possesses a maximum effective range of seven miles.

The construction of the new rifle has been completed at the Rock Island Arsenal. Experiments with it will begin at the Sandy Hook proving grounds within a fortnight. The army thus is in advance of the navy toward the solution of the problem of defense against airships. The navy only a few days ago conducted its first tests with the carriage of a one-pounder gun.

The shells which this army gun will hurl into the skies are described as remarkable devices. They will be loaded with dynamite or other explosives and on bursting will send forth a shower of shrapnel in all directions, similar to the performance of a skyrocket, almost certain to strike an airship if aimed with any degree of accuracy.

Other projectiles which have been designed for the new gun contain only a high explosive which on exploding would wreck any airship nearby.

Tracers Follow Projectiles. Following in the wake of these powerful projectiles will be tracers which will aid in guiding the gun on a course of fire. The tracers to be used in the performance of the skyrocket, almost certain to strike an airship if aimed with any degree of accuracy.

The sight of the new gun also has been perfected, designed to meet the changing conditions of the trajectory of a projectile fired at varying angles. The gun is the result of experiments held at Sandy Hook several months ago.

In the coming experiments the army will shoot at balloons and box kites and possibly a real airship will be used for the purpose of sighting at great distance.

Credit for the invention belongs to ordnance experts of the army working under direction of Brigadier General William Crozier, chief of ordnance.

Rob Nevada Assay Office. Believed One of Two Bandits at National Was Badly Injured in Running Fight. PINNEMUCCA, Nev., Aug. 30.—Holding on two men who were guarding high-grade ore in the assay office at the Mammoth mine at National last night, a pair of bandits got away with $5,000 worth of treasure. In a fight that took place afterward one of the bandits was believed to have been seriously wounded.

The robbers appeared at the assay office early in the evening and marched the guards of the ore, whom they threatened with revolvers, into a tunnel. There one of the pair stood guard over the captives while the other got away with two sacks of ore.

When the robbers had disappeared, the two mine officials summoned aid and took up the trail. They soon came up with the robbers and a fight ensued. Although one of the bandits was seemingly badly wounded, his companion assisted him in escaping in the darkness.

Two suspects were arrested at National today.

Show Concern Over Advance in Sugar. NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Grocery prices here showed a concern today over the high prices now prevailing in the sugar market. There was another advance in granulated sugar today, to 18.25, representing a full cent rise in the last few weeks and the highest level in many years.

Coming at the height of the burning season this advance is of vital interest to consumers all over the country. It is attributed primarily to a poor sugar beet crop in Europe, following prolonged drought this summer.

Mr. McCoy, who is president of the Pikes Peak Book and Stationery company, has been in that business for about 20 years, and has lived in Colorado Springs for 28 years. He is 45 years old and Mrs. McCoy is 43.

No announcement of the engagement was made and the marriage last Tuesday night was witnessed by only a few intimate friends and relatives. The ceremony was performed by Mr. and Mrs. McCoy will live at 328 East Monument.

PUBLICITY LAW FOUND FAULTY

DOES NOT REQUIRE EX-PENSES BE GIVEN OUT

Great Surprise When Bill Just Passed Proves Lacking in Provision

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Primary election expense statements for Senators Martin and Swanson of Virginia, the first to be filed under the new publicity law that went into effect August 19, reached the office of Secretary Bennett of the senate today. In the absence of Secretary Bennett, officials of his office declined to make them public. Following this declaration a careful examination of the new publicity law resulted in the startling disclosure that in the act, presumed to be most drastic, there is no requirement for publicity of the individual statements filed by candidates for the senate or the house of representatives. The law requires the filing of individual expense statements and places of appointments, but it is apparently left to the discretion of the secretary of the senate or to the clerk of the house as the case may be to decide whether these statements shall be given to the public. The publicity law of 1910 required that the expenses of campaign committees "shall be a part of a public record" in the office of the clerk of the house and "shall be open to public inspection."

The statements received today from Senators Martin and Swanson will be forwarded to Secretary Bennett in New York. What construction he will place upon the new law is not known. It was generally understood here during the preparation of the new law amending the act of 1910 that the amendments were designed to give actual publicity to the individual expenses of candidates for the senate, or the house of representatives.

Much surprise was expressed today when it was realized that the law was entirely silent on the matter of making these private expense statements public.

Two of the candidates in the Virginia senatorial primaries to be held September 7 have not yet reported their expenses to the secretary of the senate. These apparent delinquents are Representatives Glass and Jones.

Failure to file statements within the required time before election, if done willfully, carries with it the penalties of the law of 1910, namely, a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year or both. South Trimble, clerk of the house of representatives, said he would construe the law as permitting publicity of individual expense accounts if the case should come before him. No expense statements in contests for the house of representatives have been filed as yet under the new law.

The only member of the senate committee on privileges and elections, which considered the recent campaign publicity bill, today in town was Senator Heyburn. Just as he was taking a train for Idaho, he was asked in regard to the dispute over the publicity of primary election statements. He did express an opinion that all documents on file in the offices of the senate except those relating to executive sessions were open to the public unless otherwise provided by law.

YOUTHFUL OPERATOR HERO OF SHIPWRECK

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 30.—To the courage of Wireless Operator Sheesley, a 16-year-old lad, the 12 passengers and crew of the Lexington, 12 passengers and crew of 44, say they owe their lives. Stump backed for 24 hours, his nose driven deep in the quicksand of Hunting Island, which was threatening to break his life, the Lexington threatened to break his life. Sheesley, her human cargo to death in the foaming waters. It is said the Lexington will be a total loss.

But Sheesley, the wireless operator, did not despair. Persistently he ticked out his call for help and kept the terror-stricken passengers from abandoning hope. Finally a terrific wave swept the ship and wrecked the wireless station on board.

For a moment it seemed that hope was dashed, but Sheesley climbed into the rigging and hastily fixed up a station. In imminent danger of being from the high wind which threatened to tear him from this seat, and blinded by the spray, Sheesley sent out his plea for aid. Suddenly through the storm he was answered by the revenue cutter Yamacraw, which had heard his call and came on the way to save the lives of the Lexington's crew and passengers.

The 12 passengers, a steward and three negro employees on the Lexington were brought here early today by the Yamacraw which left the captain and crew of 43 men on board.

Monday afternoon the Lexington went hard aground on Hunting Island. She is listed 10 degrees to port with her bow pointing up the coast. Captain Connally, a veteran in the service of the Merchants and Miners line, declares that the hurricane was the worst of his experience at sea.

He claims his statement is attested by the first mate and steward that the wind came in gusts at times making about 130 miles an hour. The roll of the sea was terrific. All passengers were huddled in the galley hall equipped with life preservers and not a ray of light was offered that they might see the shore again.

A lien urged yesterday by the officers of the Yamacraw to abandon his boat, Captain Connally declared he would remain with her until only a mast was left to hang to.

The Lexington was tossed about for hours by the hurricane of Sunday night and Monday morning. Captain Connally, almost naked and half-frozen, stood heroically at the wheel and the stokers worked hard while standing up to their armpits in water. They tried to pump out the water, but the small pressure of 25 pounds of steam to a sufficient power to enable the Lexington to steer away from the treacherous shore towards which they were finally blown and grounded.

DENVER CLUB WOMEN TO ERECT A DAY NURSERY

DENVER, Aug. 30.—An organization to be known as "The Social Center and Day Nursery association," is being incorporated by a number of Denver club women to erect a day nursery here. inated against on account of insufficient service. The hearing before the railway commission is set for September 7. A delegation of lawyers from both sides will argue.

PORTERS ON PULLMANS HELD FOR ROBBERIES

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The police here have in custody today a pair of Pullman porters, whose arrest, they hope, will end a puzzling series of suitcase robberies on the cars of the New York Central railroad. The aggregate loss from the numerous robberies has totaled several thousand dollars. One of the porters was caught late last night after a typographic chase by police and railroad detectives, in which 30 shots were fired. The other was taken while trying to dispose of two suitcases at a pawnbroker's. Jewelry worth $1,000, later identified as the property of Miss Dona Wilber of Erie, Pa., was found in his pockets. PUBLICITY LAW FOUND FAULTY

DOES NOT REQUIRE EXPENSES BE GIVEN OUT

Great Surprise When Bill Just Passed Proves Lacking in Provision

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Primary election expense statements for Senators Martin and Swanson of Virginia, the first to be filed under the new publicity law that went into effect August 15, reached the office of Secretary Bennett of the senate today. In the absence of Secretary Bennett, officials of his office declined to make them public. Following this declaration of refusal to examine the new publicity law resulted in the startling disclosure that in the act, presumed to be most drastic, there is no requirement for publicity of the individual statements filed by candidates for the senate or the house of representatives. The law requires the filing of individual expense statements, and places of appointments, but it is apparently left to the discretion of the secretary of the senate or the clerk of the house as to whether these statements shall be given to the public. The publicity law of 1910 required that the expenses of campaign committees "shall be a part of a public record" in the office of the clerk of the house and "shall be open to public inspection."

The statements received today from Senators Martin and Swanson will be forwarded to Secretary Bennett in New York. What construction he will place upon the new law is not known. It was generally understood here during the preparation of the new law amending the act of 1910, that the amendments were designed to give actual publicity to the individual expenses of candidates for the senate or the house of representatives.

Much surprise was expressed today when it was realized that the law was entirely silent on the matter of making these private expense statements public.

Two of the candidates in the Virginia senatorial primary to be held September 7 have not yet reported their expenses to the secretary of the senate. These apparent delinquents are Representatives Glass and Jones.

Failure to file statements within the required time before election, if done willfully, carries with it the penalties of the law of 1910, namely, a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year or both. South Trimble, clerk of the house of representatives, said he would construe the law as permitting publicity of individual expense accounts if the case should come before him. No exchange statements in contests for the house of representatives have been filed as yet under the new law.

The only member of the senate committee on privileges and elections, which considered the recent campaign publicity bill, today in town was Senator Heyburn. Just as he was taking a train for Idaho, he was asked in regard to the senate over the publicity of primary election statements. He did express an opinion that all documents on file in the offices of the senate except those relating to executive sessions were open to the public unless otherwise provided by law.

YOUTHFUL OPERATOR HERO OF SHIPWRECK

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 30.—To the courage of Wireless Operator Shesley, a 16-year-old lad, the liner Lexington's 12 passengers and crew of 44 say they owe their lives. Storm raged for 24 hours, her nose driven deep in the quicksands of Hunting island with seas dashing over her. The Lexington threatened to break up and fling her human cargo to death in the seething waters. It is said the Lexington will be a total loss.

But Shesley, the wireless operator, did not despair. Persistently he ticked out his call for help and kept the terror-stricken passengers from abandoning hope. Finally a terrific wave swept the ship and wrecked the wireless station on board.

For a moment it seemed that hope was dashed, but Shesley climbed into the rising and hastily fixed up a station. In imminent danger of his life from the high wind which threatened to tear him from this seat, and blinded by the spray, Shesley sent out his plea for aid. Suddenly through the storm he was answered by the revenue cutter Yamacraw, which had heard his call and came on the way to save the lives of the Lexington's crew and passengers.

The 12 passengers, a steward and three negro employees on the Lexington were brought here early today by the Yamacraw which left the captain and crew of 43 men on board.

Monday afternoon the Lexington went hard aground off Hunting island. She is lying today in about 38 feet of water, tilted about 45 degrees to port with her bow pointing up the coast. Captain Connally, a veteran in the service of the Merchants and Miners line, declares that the hurricane was the worst of his experience at sea.

He claims his statement is attested by the first mate and steward that the wind came in gusts, at times making about 130 miles an hour. The roll of the sea was terrific. All passengers were juddled in the social hall equipped with life preservers and not a few fervent prayers were offered that they might see the shore again.

When urged yesterday by the officers of the Yamacraw to abandon his boat, Captain Connally declared he would remain with her until only a mast was left to hang to.

The Lexington was tossed about for hours by the hurricane of Sunday night and Monday morning. Captain Connally, almost naked and half frozen, stood heroically at the wheel and the steward worked hard while standing up to their armpits in water. They tried in vain to increase the small pressure of 25 pounds of steam to a sufficient power to enable the Lexington to steer away from the treacherous shore towards which they were finally blown and grounded.

Two Half Dollars in Local Restaurant May Represent a Fortune

If a dispatch received from Chicago yesterday is correct, Tucker's restaurant, this city, has two half dollars, each dated 1853, which are worth $15,000 apiece.

The dispatch in question follows:
An 1853 half dollar, which was recently taken in payment of fare by the conductor of a south side street car, is said by experts in rare coins attending the annual convention of the American Numismatic association, to be the most valuable single coin in the collection now on exhibition in connection with the meeting.

It is in the collection of H. O. Granger, of Oshkosh, Wis., and is said to be valued at $15,000.

The management of Tucker's restaurant has been collecting old coins for years, and two half dollars, both well preserved, and each clearly showing the date 1853, are among the collection. They were taken in over the counter. Eastern numismatists will be communicated with at once to learn the exact value of the coins here.

RELOCATES POPULATION

CENTER UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The center of population of the United States was announced by Director of the Census Durand today to be in the western part of the city of Bloomington, Monroe county, Ind. This is eight miles west of the location announced July 17 when Director Durand placed it 4 1/2 miles south of Unionville in the same county.

Ten years ago the center of population was six miles southeast of Columbus, Ind., 29 miles east of its new location. The change in the center of population since July 17 is due to the discovery of an error made in the census office. Two clerks worked separately in computing the geographical point but both made the same error and the wrong result was published as the census office's determination of the spot.

The movement of the center of population 23 miles westward is due to the increase of population on the Pacific coast.

"The direct increase in the population of New York, Pennsylvania and center states north of the 49th parallel has balanced the increase in Texas, Oklahoma, the Indian territory and Southern California," said Director Durand.

"The greater advance toward the west is to a large extent due to the increase of population of the Pacific coast states, their distance from the center giving much greater weight than the populous states east of the center."

"For instance, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland and Sacramento, with a population of 900,000 have as great an influence on the center of population as Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore with a population of 2,775,000."

The total western movement of the center of population since 1790 is 553 miles.

UNANIMOUS IN NAMING

By sending them misleading telegrams regarding his candidacy, Cabrera read a telegram which he alleged had been inspired by the central committee which political ethics in Mexico bars from concerted advocacy of any candidacy. It was instructions to work for the candidacy of Pino Suarez immediately every delegate in the house was on his feet. The members of the central committee seated upon the stage with the chairman rushed to the front and were met by a half-dozen delegates who crowded over the footlights, waving their arms and shouting their approval or disapproval of the exposure. Juan Sanchez Azcona, chairman of the convention, with outstretched arms vainly implored delegates and spectators to restrain themselves. He could not be heard only a few feet away. Members of the accused committee shook their fists in Cabrera's face and protested their innocence.

A member of the committee was Gustavo Bladaro, whose excitement was no less apparent than that of the others. Cabrera only listened to the tumult, which at intervals subsided sufficiently to permit a central committee to protest his innocence.

For more than 10 minutes pandemonium reigned but in the end Cabrera was permitted to conclude his arguments. The committee members resumed their seats about the table and to these he defiantly turned, while the house was applauding his efforts. Directly toward the group of committee men he marched and then the men whom he had been reviling embraced him.

Under the rules adopted voting on the candidates, which will be tomorrow, cannot well be prolonged through more than three ballots. Following the first vote the candidate receiving the smallest number will be eliminated. The second ballot will result in the dropping out of another, leaving but two men in the field.

DIVERSITY OF OPINION ON SEPTEMBER COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 30.—Opinion in the cotton market is more divided than usual over the government report on the condition of the crop due to be published Friday.

The September report is looked upon as probably the most important this season. It is generally acknowledged that deterioration has taken place since the last report. The dispute is as to how great the deterioration has been. The report will carry the growing crop down to August 25. On July 25 the condition was put at 89.1. The consensus of opinion this month points to about 77 or a decrease of 12 points. Although a report of 77 would be considered bullish the bears point out that it would still be well above the average and would indicate a very large yield. To cause much of an advance the figures must come around 75 it is said and while 79 or 80 probably would cause a slump.

KEEN INTEREST

In 10 years every university will be self supporting.

Chancellor Buchtel was introduced by W. T. Scott who presided.

At the meeting of the board of foreign missions the Rev. J. Z. Moore, missionary of Korea, made the principal address. He was introduced by the Rev. A. B. Wherry.

Do Not Seek Missionaries.

Those returning from foreign lands say they never get to see a missionary, Mr. Moore said. The trouble is that they are never looking for missionaries.

Mr. Moore made a comparison of his own field in Korea since the time he first went there 10 years ago. He said that the country is hardly recognizable the change is so great.

Bishop Henry White Warren of Denver presided at the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, observed at the church yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. Half an hour later the conference was formally opened, when the Rev. W. E. Bennett, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, this city, ascended the platform and introduced Major Avery, who gave the address of welcome.

There is, in my opinion, no class of men to which we owe more for their work in developing true citizenship, bringing about better laws and uplifting generally the social conditions than the ministers," Mayor Avery said.

The Rev. U. Seth Tabor, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, also gave an address, welcoming the visitors on behalf of the churches of Colorado Springs. The welcome on behalf of the Methodists of the Pikes Peak region was extended by the Rev. C. M. Cooper, pastor of Ashbury M. E. church. Bishop Warren made the response.

Compliment to Bishop Warren.

At the outset of the meeting Bishop Warren was tendered a resolution of appreciation by the conference delegates with the expressed hope that "he might live forever."

Bishop Warren called the convention to order following the exchange of greetings. A roll call of the living and dead members of the conference was held, after which memorial services were held for "those who have been transferred to the church triumphant."

A dividend of $2157 was declared in favor of the Colorado conference by the Methodist Book concern. The conference claimants announced a dividend of $400 and the charter board announced a dividend of $30 in favor of the conference.

Dr. B. T. Vincent of Denver has been asked to write a history of the conference to be read next year. W. F. Warren of California, who built the first church in Colorado Springs, sent his greetings in a letter. Speeches were made by the Rev. E. C. Clemans and Dr. H. J. Crocker yesterday morning.

Officers Elected.

Following are the officers elected at the session:

Conference secretary, Dr. Wilbur F. Steels of University Park, Denver, statistical secretary, the Rev. John Collins of Denver; treasurer, the Rev. S. A. Webber of Leadville; postmaster, the Rev. J. R. Rader of Denver, railroad secretary, the Rev. N. H. Lee of Denver, fair organizer, the Rev. Guy E. Conkle of Denver; committee on platform, the Rev. F. R. Hollenbeck and the Rev. C. M. Cooper of Colorado Springs.

OPIUM SMOKERS HELD

Mamie Brown, colored, charged with vagrancy, was dismissed in Justice Brown's court yesterday afternoon, but being unable to furnish bond of $400 for appearance as a witness, she was again taken to the county jail. The wife of Lewis Folk and Henry Johnson, also colored, the former being held on a charge of disturbance and the latter for vagrancy, were continued until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The trio were recently arrested upon complaint of Mrs. Emma Essex, 405 Washington avenue, at whose home Folk had rented rooms. In a search of the room the authorities found a valise filled with opium outfits. The United States revenue officers from Denver are coming here and probably will take part in the prosecution.

Deposed Police Chief

Seeks Investigation;
Commissioners Decline

Saying that he has no legal right to a hearing but that he requests one as a courtesy, Stephen Armstrong, former chief of police, yesterday morning presented a formal application for an investigation of the charges which resulted in his dismissal by Mayor Avery.

The council seemed unanimous in believing that no hearing should be granted, on the general grounds that the charges for which he was dismissed were sufficient, and that it would be bad policy to set such a precedent. The commissioners said that Armstrong apparently desires to clear his name of any stigma, which has never been implied. The letter was laid on the table.

It follows:

To the Honorable Mayor and Members of the City Council:

Feeling greatly humiliated, because of my discharge as chief of police and desiring that nothing in connection therewith on my part be received from public knowledge of the entire community, I would like a public investigation of the facts connected with the foregoing transaction. Having been advised that I am not entitled to such a hearing as a right, I respectfully request as a courtesy from your body that you fix some convenient day and hour in the near future at which I may appear before you with such persons as may be willing to appear and make public statements in regard to my conduct and would ask that the city attorney be present to cross-examine if he desires. I have been a resident of Colorado Springs for many years and am only asking to relieve myself of stigma or removal. Any expense connected with the same I will gladly bear. I desire the hearing to be open to the public, especially to representatives of the press.

(Signed) S. ARMSTRONG.

Other Business.

At the council meeting the resignation of J. W. F. Johnson as patrolman was accepted, and James H. White of 116 South Corona street was named to fill the vacancy.

The union depot commission, in a communication, asked that the city bear a part of the expense of that body. It is the intention of the commission that the county and city each share half the expense. The communication was referred to Commissioner Whitaker of the department of finance.

The transfer of the liquor license of the South End pharmacy of Joseph City was authorized.

Through H. S. Fairchild, the Colorado Springs Land and Lot company asked that the water system be extended to the Park Lake addition. The matter was referred to Mayor Avery and Water Superintendent McReynolds.

Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, the council will meet as a committee of the whole to hear C. R. Owens point out the evil effects of having no ordinance requiring licensed engineers to run all steam plants, such as those for elevators in buildings.

WELL-KNOWN CRIPPLE CREEK ELK IS MISSING

Searching parties are scouring the entire Cripple Creek district in an effort to locate "H. P. Seeds," 30 years old, who left his home in Cripple Creek at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and has not been seen or heard from since. Mr. Seeds has been secretary of the Cripple Creek Elks lodge for many years, and formerly was deputy clerk of the district court, fourth judicial district. He is well known throughout the Elks Peak region. A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Myrtle Seeds, lives here.

The only theory on which the searchers can account for his sudden disappearance is that his mind became temporarily unbalanced, and that he has wandered off. It is feared that he may have come to harm in some abandoned mine shaft or prospect hole, or that he may be suffering from exposure. Another theory has it that he has come to this city, and a party of Cripple Creek Elks will come here this morning.

A woman living on the slope of Bull hill is reported as saying that she saw someone answering Seeds' description walking past her house. She paid no attention to him at the time, however. Mr. Seeds is about five feet, six inches in height, weighs 145 pounds, has a black mustache and black hair, and wears a light-colored suit. William Seeds, who formerly was judge of the district court.

Short Line Unable to Give Increase Asked; Another Conference Up

Representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen conferred yesterday with J. B. Waters, general manager of the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District railroad, but could reach no agreement as to a proposed revision of the wage scale in force on the Short Line.

T. A. Gregg and J. A. Farquharson, who represented the conductors and trainmen at the meeting, will hold a conference tomorrow with J. B. Waters, superintendent of the Short Line, to talk over working conditions. It is understood that another conference will be held with Mr. Waters in an attempt to reach a settlement on the wage question.

Seventy-five conductors and trainmen are asking that they be given a ten per cent increase in wages. Representatives of the employees said last night that they have not given up hope, and are still working for a mutually satisfactory settlement.

"I am always ready to meet with the representatives of the conductors and trainmen, or any other branch of the service," Mr. Waters said, following the conference. "In saying that the railroad will not grant the increase, I do not mean it in a spirit of antagonism towards the employees or their principles, but I speak from a knowledge of what the finances of the railroad can stand. We might grant the increase but we could not pay the money. We haven't got it to pay."

Railway Mail Clerk Is Cut by Glass on Train

C. H. McCumber, 1302 East Platte avenue, a railway mail clerk on the Rock Island road, was severely cut on the forehead and wrists yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, when a mail pouch swung into the glass door of the car, smashing it and scattering the broken glass in every direction. The train, which is due here about 12 o'clock, was 70 or 80 miles east of this city when the accident occurred.

When some distance from a small station where the train does not stop, but where the mail is taken "on the run" by the "hanging arm" attached to the side of the mail car, McCumber glanced out of the car preparatory to hitching the hanging arm. It is thought that he left the door a little ajar at that time. At any rate, when the mail bag came hurtling into the car, it brought a good part of the broken glass door with it, with the above result.

It was at first thought that some of the broken glass had injured his eye, but examination showed that aside from the cuts mentioned, he was unhurt. He will be able to return to work in a few days. McCumber is at his home.

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR STOPPED

Harmless, Old-Fashioned Remedy Brings Back Color to Gray Hair and Makes It Grow.

How many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old-time, tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy nothing equals our grandmothers' "age tea." Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer.

Nowadays, when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

Druggists are authorized to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, The Robinson Drug Co.

Absent Minded Engineer Chased by Police for 3 Hours; Took Wrong Rig

Edmond C. van Diest, well-known consulting engineer, graduate of the first class turned out by the State School of Mines, former engineer for the Colorado Springs park commission, a man having no "record" with the police, was chased for three hours yesterday morning by mounted Officers Barber, who wanted to arrest him for the supposed theft of a horse and buggy. To Mr. van Diest's credit be it said that the policeman did not know whom he was chasing, and van Diest did not know that a real sleuth was on his trail.

Wanting to show a friend over the park system, the engineer telephoned a livery stable to have a horse and buggy in front of The Gazette building, in which Mr. van Diest's office is located, at 9 a. m.

The hour came and with it Mr. van Diest and his friend. The engineer sped a good looking rig hitched to a post in front of the building. He untied the animal, and he and his friend drove off.

Enter on the scene John Berry, superintendent of the park system. As he approached the vacant space by the hitching post, his face took on a very pained expression. He stood undecided a minute, and then hustled to the nearest telephone, whence he excitedly got into communication with one John A. Himebaugh, now running the police department. In a short time the mounted policeman, besides the regular man on the beat and the detectives, held a guarded and mysterious conference. A description of the stranger who had taken the horse was obtained and the various members of the police force dispersed, each to solve the mystery in his own aboriginal way.

The Beginning of the End.
High noon is marked by Phebus, the sun-god, as the next scene of the comedy of errors is put on. Mr. van Diest and his friend leisurely drive up in front of The Gazette building. Simultaneously Mr. Berry and the sleuths, who have been industriously scanning the spot where the team was last seen, rush up to confront the bold robber thus returning to the scene of his depredation.

"What, ho, varlet!" is on the tip of Berry's tongue, when he suddenly gets a glimpse of van Diest's face. At the same time the mounted policeman and the detectives determinedly approach the bold culprit. The robber meekly dodges back of the buggy from which he has just alighted. He goes to another team; hitched nearby, examines it and turns around with the exclamation, "That's the team the stable usually sends me. I must have taken some else's team this morning!"

"Yes, you took mine," says Berry. Then the policeman look at Mr. Berry, who looks at van Diest, who looks them all back; the broad smile on the engineer's face passes the rounds, contagiously, and the incident is closed by the rather rapid comments of the mounted policeman, as he rides off to pastures new.

CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

The condition of Mrs. Peter Smith, 319 East First street, Nob Hill, who was badly burned Tuesday morning when a pan of lard and turpentine exploded, setting fire to her dress, was reported as still critical last night. She suffers a great deal of pain, but Dr. G. E. Zillman, who is in attendance, said last night that she has about an even chance for recovery, and is testing easy, considering the circumstances.

Yesterday morning it was believed that the woman could not live, and several relatives were notified by wire. She appeared to gain slightly during the day, however.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are Scotch. Mr. Smith coming from Edinburgh, and his wife from Boxfordshire.

Interesting Features of the New Jury List

Chester Alan Arthur of this city, son of the late President Arthur, was drawn yesterday on the district court jury list for the September term. His was not the only well-known one selected for the county and district jury lists, others being W. M. Randall of Broadmoor, well-known golf and polo player, and W. Arthur Perkins and W. J. Musick, both of this city.

It is understood that Arthur cannot be required to do jury duty, since he claims Paris as his home. W. A. Oils, the well-known broker, whose name was also drawn, escaped service by being out of the city.

Of the list of 75 names, drawn from the tax lists for jury duty, six were those of dead men.

She looked forward with pleasure to attending the communion service yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and arose early to prepare to attend the meeting.

She is survived by her husband, J. Gold. The body was taken last night to Dwight, Kans. for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Gold came here three years ago.

THE PRESIDENTIAL JUNKET

NEXT month Mr. Taft is to swing around the circle again. Let us hope that the consequences will be less disastrous than they were two years ago.

Somehow we have never been able to work up much enthusiasm over Presidential swings around the circle. It was President Harrison, we believe, who established the precedent of touring the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, merely for the apparent purpose of making rear platform speeches. His successors to this day have adhered to the custom, but not with conspicuous benefits either to themselves or the country. It is argued that the people should be given an opportunity now and then to meet their Chief Executive, gaze upon him, be enthralled by his eloquence, and then, in the last two or three years go away and crack stale jokes about his ponderosity. Congress has officially sanctioned the custom by making an annual allowance of $25,000 for the President's traveling expenses; so that he may not be dependent on the generosity of the railroads.

And Mr. Taft is struggling valorously to spend this money. Undismayed by the consequences of the transcontinental trip undertaken two years ago, in the course of which his justly celebrated Winona speech was given to the public, he purposes to try it again. According to present plans he will start on September 17 and get back to Washington about the first of November, which means six weeks on the road, six weeks of grueling travel, with three or four rear platform speeches daily and an endless round of indigestible banquets at the cities en route. Surely not an inviting prospect even for an active, vigorous man, but to a man of Mr. Taft's physical liability it is actual labor.

Of course, this trip is

DOES NOT CATCH THE OFFICIAL COMING OUT PARTY FOR THE TAFT PRESIDENTIAL BOOM OF 1912.

The President will make many speeches vindicating his policies and his deeds. And it is scarcely necessary to add that he has a big job on his hands. The discontent which arose after the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill still prevails. It would hardly do to say that the country doubts the President's sincerity and good faith, but it is perfectly plain that the country doubts his capacity. Most Republicans frankly admit that he is a square peg in a round hole. His undisputed abilities would be immensely valuable to the country in some other capacity, in that of a justice of the Supreme Court, for instance, but his lack of training in politics and his seeming inability to learn the game, together with his easy-going willingness to listen to bad advice constitute a disability which will forever prevent his attaining complete success in the Presidency.

Mr. Taft is not an orator; he does not catch the imagination and fancy of his hearers. When he stands before a crowd on a depot platform or in an auditorium there is a noticeable lack of that magnetic influence which binds Roosevelt to his hearers. It is extremely doubtful whether the President really does wisely in showing himself to the public at all except when it is unavoidable. At any rate his previous efforts along this line justify the belief that he has nothing to gain by transcontinental tours. Of course, the people will flock to hear him and see him, just as they would go to hear and see any other man who happened to be President of the United States, but their interest is inspired by the office and not by the man.

Our guess, now that the guessing is good, is that Mr. Taft's forthcoming tour will not add to his strength as a Presidential candidate next year.

COLD STORAGE FOODS

JUST what change eggs and other food products undergo in cold storage is a thing still undetermined. But careful investigation has shown that there is a limit, and a much shorter limit than was formerly supposed, to the period in which most foods can be held in cold storage without becoming unhealthful and therefore unfit for use. As a result of such investigations the New York legislature at its recent session, passed a drastic law regulating cold storage. A limitation is fixed to the time that a food product can be kept in storage. Food once exposed for sale cannot be restored, and invariably the date of placing the article in storage and the date of delivery therefrom must be plainly printed on the package so that the buyer may know just what he is getting. People who are willing or whether willing or not, must eat eggs six months old will at least have the satisfaction of knowing the age of those eggs.

But it will not do to indict the cold storage warehouse as an unqualified enemy to the public health. On the contrary it is a great blessing, and but for modern means of refrigeration the price of foods would be much higher than it is, especially to city dwellers—it is obviously impossible in such places as New York, Chicago and other large cities to serve eggs, poultry, vegetables, and other perishable food products to the public in a state of absolute freshness. But thanks to the cold storage warehouse it is possible to keep them pure until they can be delivered to the consumer. The abuse comes when the warehousemen deliberately hold large quantities of foods in storage to await higher prices, and often hold them so long that their purity and healthfulness is impaired. It is this abuse that health authorities are trying to remedy, and the new law adopted in New York State is expected to prove an effective instrument to this end.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

SMOKE AND SMOKERS

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Is it worth while or does it pay, viewed from any standpoint, to lower our ideals?

In the recent past, when our ex-president expressed his mind about arbitration, something he was reported as saying seemed quite like taking the law into one's own hands. If for no other reason than to avoid "derision."

Perhaps if certain nuances, as well as "honor," were treated as Theodore Roosevelt suggests, some good might be derived therefrom.

There is the almost universal habit of smoking. Just think of the expense, the slenderness of utility by steamship companies, railroad corporations, and "honor" simply to furnish luxurious lounges for the indulging of this habit. Merely the average man would feel ashamed, no doubt, to find himself in an especially appointed apartment for the sole use of indulging in profanity, for instance, and yet this habit of swearing may not be considered, by some, to be nearly so objectionable to the other fellow, as smoking.

Well, here are all these particular places where the smoke-filled mind and body must not be mentioned all outdoors, and yet—think of this, too—there is not a public dining room or cafe where one may go and be free from this nuisance. If there were, one would be tempted to encourage oneself without inconveniencing others; but in the choice accommodations provided are not enough, and without even a "by your leave" one has to have smoke puffed into his or her face at every turn and there is no redress.

If an animal is born a hog we rather expect he will act like one—and he has an excuse. But if a two-legged animal calling himself a man behaves like a "porker," it is a waste of both time and energy to expostulate; better follow our own chief executive's advice—don't go to law, do something yourself and do it on the spot.

Colorado Springs, August 30.

FROM OTHER PENS

INGENIOUS TACOMA

From Colliers:

A Tacoma reader writes with much satisfaction to say that advertisements of whisky, beer, or other intoxicants appear on the billboards of his city. The ingenious plan which abolished this part of the billboard nuisance was invented by Frank A. Baker, assistant city attorney. He pointed out that billposting is a legitimate business and that an ordinance prohibiting the display of liquor advertisements on billboards would, probably, not be sustained by the courts. On the other hand, he suggested that the city commissioners can impose any conditions they choose in granting a license to sell liquors; that no one has an inherent right to sell intoxicants; and that a license can be granted, refused, or revoked for any reason or for no reason. Therefore, he recommended that those interested should petition the city commissioners to pass an ordinance to the effect that in granting a license to billpost, the licensee shall be bound to make that the liquor dealer shall not sell any whisky, beer, or other intoxicants which are advertised on any billboard within the limits of the city of Tacoma; the penalty being the revocation of the license.

The Men's club of the Ethical society of Tacoma drew up a petition as outlined, giving as their reason "the harmful effect on the minds and morals of children." It was endorsed by the board of education, the Federated Women's club, the Federated Men's club, improvement clubs, the faculty of the High school, and every school teacher and clergyman that was interviewed. The ordinance was passed today there is not a liquor advertisement on any billboard in Tacoma. Would it be too trite to add that Mr. Baker's plan seems adaptable to any other city?

THE TARIFF VETOES AND VETO MESSAGES

From Harper's Weekly.

Naturally we cannot extend this approval to the vetoes of the several bills aimed to revive the tariff downward. No fault can be found with the President's message on the scope of courtesy and dignity. President Taft is not given to scolding Congress or to abuse of those who disagree with him or to the assumption of infallibility. But with the general position which he takes in reference to tariff legislation we heartily disagree, and so, we think, does the country. He avows himself still a protectionist, and the country is tired of protection. Of course he is a Republican president, and nobody has a right to be surprised that he should continue to stand by the platform on which he was elected. But we can certainly question the logic of his application of that platform to the present situation. His specific contention is that he must be guided by the difference in the cost of production, and that he has no reliable data for estimating that difference in the case of the commodities affected by the bills sent up to him, that therefore it is his duty to wait until the tariff board supplies him and Congress with the data needed. But did he have any such data when he signed the Payne bill, and pronounced it the best tariff ever enacted? He admits that he thinks the rate in Schedule K too high. Congress agrees with him. Why, then, should he not join with Congress in lowering them? Was not Schedule K framed without more knowledge than Mr. Underwood and his associates had when they revised it—with less knowledge, in fact, since we have now had two years of experience of its operation?

Sunflower Philosophy

The swathing season soon will close, and we'll enjoy some well-earned repose. I took around with my eyes, upon my stock of swathed flies, and feel my toll was labor lost; the flies ain't worth half what they cost. A while I mused, and then my eyes began to shine, and happiness pervaded my breast. I say: "I surely did my best. I did my task with willing hand, and when I went to heat the ladle, and though my sweat ran down, I made no more accomplished swaths, and 'Conscience smote me like a peck.' To do your best—there honor lies. At swathing wood or swathing flies, at writing poems or raising greens, or hunking coffee out of beans—your soul will know the sweetest rest. If you will always do your best." We feel discouraged when we view the window when the day is through; we saw the other hunkers pass; their arms were strong, they cut more grass than they greeted us with clemency stares—but our reward's as great as theirs when we come the evening hours of rest, if we have only done our best.

THE DAILY CHAT

BY RUTH CAMERON

"Thinking of beautiful things we know. Dreaming of things that we mean to do. All complete in a minute or two. Something noble and grand and good. Won't be merely wishing we could."

—Kipling.

"Are you one of those people who are forever saying, 'I wish I had this or that.' 'I wish someone would do it and leave me ten thousand dollars.' 'I wish, etc., etc.'"

If you are, did you ever realize that there is such a thing as the immortality of wishing? Probably not.

"I think there is."

Indeed, I think wanting to have things without paying for them in coin of heart or labor or sacrifice or desert or some similar specie is one of the greatest immoralities in the world.

It is this attitude which stands behind half the sins and follies in the calendar.

The thief, the seducer, the gambler and a thousand others are products of the desire to have without paying.

Then, too, over much wishing is idleness.

It has been said that the same effect upon the character that riding all the time and never using one's legs as God meant them to be used would have upon the body muscles.

Of course, there is more than one kind of wishing.

There is the light-hearted, nonchalant wish that says cheerfully, "It would be fun to have one of those touring cars to go rushing around the country in." Or "Wouldn't it be great to live in a big house like that?"

And there is the discontented, unhappy wish that says enviously, "Oh, dear, I wish I had that automobile." "I wish I had his money." "Why can't I have a chance like that?"

The first kind of wishing is useless, but harmless, if not indulged in too much. The second is both useless and harmful.

Wishing is only allowable when it grows strong enough to become a motive for an honest attempt at achievement.

Wishing is like steam, useless and sometimes dangerous when allowed to escape, but capable of accomplishing great things when harnessed.

Teach your children—and incidentally yourself if you need it—not to say or think "I wish" too much.

Teach them, in more concrete terms, of course, that labor and contentment are the two handmaidens of happiness; and that neither likes the company of "I wish."

A Divorce Problem

By DAMON RUNYON

I'm givin' her bonds worth millions; Dell's a quiet old girl. And she knows that I've worked a lifetime, and how I'm wantin' my wife!

And I guess if she reads the papers—they've roasted me to a crisp. She knows I'm goin' to Paris with a female will—no more of it.

But my lawyers say when they told her she took my terms with a nod: "Tall him," she said, "it's settled—but what will he say to God?"

BOMB THROWER BUSY AGAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The explosion of a black-hand bomb loaded with dynamite and gun cotton on the front of an Italian fruiterer's at Lexington avenue and Thirty-first street early today, rattled the windows of residences and apartment houses for a mile along fashionable Fifth avenue and awakened hundreds of guests in the Hotel Plaza, the St. Regis and other fashionable hostels.

The internal machine, which the police say was hurled by a black hander from a flying taxicab, was one of the most powerful ever exploded in New York. It tore a great hole in the pavement and completely demolished the lower portion of the fruiterer's building.

A police sergeant, who stood at a corner a little above, watched the speeding taxicab as it slowed down on the asphalted street and then was suddenly thrown off his feet when the crash came. "He hopes to be able to identify the taxicab, which he says was jet black in color and somewhat unusual in shape."

The fruiterer, Charles Romo, who is reputed wealthy, told the police that he had received many letters demanding money and threatening all sorts of dire punishment if the cash was not forthcoming. Romo's loss from the damage to his stock and building will probably reach $5,000.

FIND LONE SURVIVOR CRUEL INDIAN BAND

CHICO, Cal., Aug. 30.—The last known survivor of the Mill Creek and Deer Creek Indians, whose atrocities made hideous pages in the annals of early California, was captured two miles from Chico yesterday while attempting to steal meat from a slaughter house. Driven from his fastnesses of the Feather River country by forest fires, he was taken to Oroville, starved beyond resistance, and followed by a crowd which collected at the sight of a man 60 years old, unshod and clad only in a sleeveless shirt, laced with deerskin thongs.

Indians of surviving tribes were summoned, but were unable to talk with him. A number of deputy sheriffs offered him food. By way of experiment, a knife, fork and spoon were laid beside a tin plate loaded with potatoes and meat. But the savage took no notice of them, chewing pieces of meat apart with his hands. He was shown firearms but did not comprehend their use, but when a deputy lighted a cigarette, he seized the match and by making circles around his head demonstrated that he kept his hair short by singeing it.

His only possessions were a few deer shins.

No one knows what to do with him, no charge having been placed against him.

The Deer Creek and Mill Creek Indians were obliterated as tribesmen in a series of battles in the early '60s, and it has been believed that none of the tribesmen survived.

DESERTS SUFFRAGE TO WORK FOR YOUNG MEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Lady Cook, famous English suffragette, announced today that she had abandoned her campaign of votes for women to enter on a crusade for the uplift of young men and women in this city.

"I have made a personal investigation of conditions here and I am convinced that I can do more good in reforming the young people than in spending money trying to get votes for women the world over," said Lady Cook. "I will make this city my home in the future and build four small churches in which I will begin my work for the moral uplift of the young man and woman. My only objection to Chicago is its noise. I still believe in woman suffrage but I think this other work is more important at present."

$2403.652 LEFT BY RICH MAN TO CHARITY

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mitchell Valenka, a Westchester county millionaire, who died two years ago, left almost his entire estate of $2,500,000 to charity, according to the appraiser's report made public today. The Haberman and Presbyterian hospitals of this city are beneficiaries to the extent of $1,146,526 each; the Peabody Home for Aged and Indigent Women received $100,000 and St. Peter's Episcopal church of Westminster $10,000. Two nieces receive annual incomes of $1,000 each and to a nephew is given $5,000 outright.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

August 31, 1881.

A boom in town lots at Crested Butte was reported. That town had, at this time, just been laid out. The railroad had not yet reached it.

A desperado known as the "Black Kid" who had killed Marshall Osgood was taken from the jail at Silverton and lynched.

The business of the local postoffice had increased to such an extent that it was said that additional boxes would have to be constructed to accommodate the patrons. A carrier system was being talked of.

Austin's Glen was said to be receiving more attention from tourists than during any previous season. It is now a part of Palmer Park.

A correspondent wrote The Gazette that it was an error to call Leadville the richest mining camp in the country. He said that the Hardscrabble district in Custer county was much richer, although not so well developed. Leadville is still producing considerable ore and the Hardscrabble district is forgotten, so this correspondent was a poor prophet.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

August 31, 1891.

The Gazette baseball team defeated the team of the Denver Republican by a score of 34 to 11.

The Ute Pass road which had been badly washed out was repaired and reopened to traffic.

The public schools of this city opened for the season. The High school was located in the old Congregational church building on Bijou street. The other buildings then in use were the Garfield, the Liller, the Lincoln and the West Colorado Springs schools.

Seven Marvelous Achievements

History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. "Of all numbers there is one which commanded, in a higher degree, the esteem and reverence of mankind." The Gazette has taken this charmed number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Monday, and continuing during the week.

No. 1 NAPOLEON'S CROSSING THE ALPS

One of the greatest of the many daring achievements of Napoleon Bonaparte was when he led a rapidly gathered army over the craggy Great St. Bernard and descended like an avalanche into Italy upon the forces of the Austrian general, Melas.

Napoleon had just finished his expedition into Egypt, and the course of events in France had recalled him home. The general congratulation and rejoicing at his return caused him to be able to overturn the unpopular government of the Directory; and, a new form of government having been set up, he was appointed the head and sovereign leader under the title of first consul. This occurred on December 24, 1799. Napoleon at once turned his attention again to the military situation. The victory of Massena at Zurich had freed France from the danger of invasion by the second coalition, but Italy and southern Germany were once more in the hands of the Austrians, and Massena, with a French army, was shut up in Genoa.

Napoleon, suddenly, and with the utmost secrecy, gathered a new army for the invasion of Italy. Instead of taking the expected course of advancing along the Riviera, he took his army, whose existence was unknown to the Austrians, across the great St. Bernard pass, a feat which the average commander would have deemed too difficult to undertake.

On the 13th of May, 1800, the first consul reviewed the vanguard of his army, which was commanded by General Lannes, at Lausanne. The entire army consisted of 70,000 men. First two columns, each of about 6,000 men, were put in motion, one under Moreau and the other under Chabran, to take the routes of Mont Cenis and the Little St. Bernard.

A division consisting of 15,000 men under Moreau, detached from the army of the Rhine, was to march to St. Gothard. Moreau knew that the Austrian army, of the Rhine, under General Kray, on the defensive before Ulm, and held himself in readiness to cover the operations of the first consul in Italy. The main body of the French army, in numbers about 46,000, nominally commanded by Berthier, but in fact by the first consul himself, marched on the 15th from Lausanne to the village of St. Pierre, at the foot of the Great St. Bernard, at which all trace of a practical army entirely ceased. General Marescot, the engineer, who had been sent forward from Genoa to reconnoiter, reported the path to be "barely passable."

When Napoleon was informed of this fact he replied: "Set forward immediately." Field forces were established at St. Pierre to dismount the guns. Carriages and wheels were slung on poles, and the ammunition boxes were carried by mules. A number of trees were felled, then hallowed out, and the pieces, being jammed into these rough cases, 100 soldiers were attached to each and ordered to drag them up the steep.

Imagining how it must have seemed to attempt what was looked upon as impossible, but Napoleon commanded it, and forward they went. In spite of all difficulties and obstacles in the way, the whole army effected the passage of the Great St. Bernard in three days, and accomplished one of the most marvelous feats recorded in warfare. Napoleon had treaded in the bold steps of Hannibal, and fearlessly and even with much less effort, had crossed with his army the most dangerous passes of the Alps. From May 15 to May 19, the solitude of the vast mountain track echoed to the din and tumult of war as the French soldiery swept over its heights to reach the valley of the Po and the plains of Lombardy.

A hill fort, for a time, stopped the daring invaders, but the obstacle was passed by an ingenious stratagem, and before long, Bonaparte, exulting in hope, was marching from the verge of Piedmont on Milan, having made a demonstration against Turin in order to hide his real purpose.

On June 2 the whole French army, joined by the reinforcement sent by Moreau, was in possession of the Lombard capital, and threatened the line of its enemy's retreat, having successfully accomplished the first part of the brilliant design of its great leader—to become once more master of northern Italy.

PUPPIES AND KITTENS
FOUND IN FRUIT CAR

In a car of fruit consigned to Ira I.
Mayer of this city, which arrived yesterday morning, were found a big brown shepherd dog, eight puppies and seven half starved kittens. The kittens were tied in an old sack, but the pups were with their mother and did not lack nourishment. All probably suffered from the cold refrigerator car, and humane Officer Reynolds has started an investigation of the case

IMPROVING BRIDGES

Workmen under the direction of the county commissioners are drilling in the approaches to the new Kettle creek bridge, about 10 miles north of here on the road to Palmer Lake. The bridge, which is 32 feet long, is used to stand a strain of 80,000 pounds.
The commissioners are having all the railings of the bridges on roads under their supervision painted white, so that autoists may see the bridges more clearly at night

One of the most common ailments that hard working people are afflicted with is lame back. Apply Chamberlain's Liniment twice a day and massage the parts thoroughly at each application, and you will get quick relief. For sale by all dealers.

Chanticleer Reading

Madam Augusta Helein French dramatic artist, will give on September 5, at 3:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Alfred Blackman, 1806 Wood avenue a French dramatic reading of Rostand's Chanticleer. Madam Helein is already well known in this city by the success she obtained and the enthusiasm she aroused in her lectures of "Maeterlinck's Monna Vanna" given at Mrs. Baldwin's and "Rostand's La Princesse Lointaine" at Mrs.
Frederic Taylor's

Mrs. A. Blackman has kindly and generously opened her residence to the public, to anyone, man or woman, anxious to hear what this gifted little French woman will make of Rostand's bavard epic. It will not be a social function, but a literary and dramatic entertainment, to which all are cordially invited.

An admission fee of $1.00 will be charged
